

This textbook contains material on evolution. Evolution is a theory, not a fact, regarding the origin of living things. This material should be approached with an open mind, studied carefully, and critically considered.

This textbook claims that evolution is not fully accepted by scientists because it is "just a theory." The author hopes to confuse you into equating scientific theory with cockamamie theory.

This sticker covers a smaller, pre-existing sticker that was designed by nutjobs to undermine the teaching of science in your class.

This book claims an Intelligent Designer, formerly known as God, crafted all life on earth in several days. Please turn your head away from the book when you spew coffee through your nose.

This book claims that the Earth orbits the Sun. The author should be burned at the stake as an example to others.

This text suggests that the Earth is spherical. Might be, might not — few people have been to space, and their photographs could have been digitally altered to fool us.

This book promotes the theory of continental drift. Because nobody observed this process, it is possible the Earth was just made this way by a supernatural entity.

This textbook states that the earth is over 4 billion years old. Others believe rather fervently that it's only 6000 years old. The reader should defer to parents' opinions and local sentiment.

This textbook treats gravity as a fact, but it's just a theory. This material should be approached with an open mind, studied carefully, and critically considered.

This book was donated to your school library to discreetly promote supernatural alternatives to the theory of evolution. Please re-shelve it in the fiction section.

This textbook has a fantastic chapter on how humans evolved. Ask your teacher, in class, why it's not being covered in lectures. Record the answer with your phone and post on Facebook.

This textbook suggests that fossils are remnants of formerly living organisms, some long since extinct. It is also possible that fossils were molded by Satan to deceive us.

This book explains the difference between a fact and a myth. If you feel your kids' belief in magic is ebbing, cane them.

This book defines a cult as those who hold bizarre beliefs. Belief in supernatural entities, however, is exempt.

This book discusses God as if he actually exists. Many people believe that gods, especially other people's gods, are fictional. Just saying.
